Frequently Asked Questions:

How much blood is taken?
For a whole blood donation, approximately 0.5 L of blood is collected. For donations of other blood products, such as platelet or plasma, the amount collected depends on your height, weight and platelet count.

Are the history questions necessary every time I donate?
Yes, since this helps to ensure the safest possible blood supply. All donors must be asked the screening questions at each donation. Both AABB and FDA regulations specifically require that all blood donors complete the donor history questionnaire on the day of donation and prior to donating.

Can I donate blood if I am taking a medication to prevent HIV?
All donors who have taken a medication to prevent HIV infection – known as pre-exposure prophylaxis (PrEP) or post-exposure prophylaxis (PEP) – are temporarily deferred from blood donation due to the suppressive effect that these medications have on HIV testing.

If I just received a flu shot, can I donate blood?
Yes. There is no waiting period to donate after receiving a flu shot.
