Group B Strep

Group B Strep:

- Group B Streptococcus (GBS), also known as group B strep, Streptococcus agalactiae, Strep B, or Beta Strep, is a type of bacteria that is naturally found in the digestive and lower reproductive tracts of both men and women.
- About 1 in 4 pregnant individuals "carry" or are "colonized" with group B strep (GBS).
- Babies can be infected by group B strep before birth and up to about 6 months of age due to their underdeveloped immune systems.
- GBS most commonly causes invasive infection in the blood (sepsis), the fluid and lining of the brain (meningitis), and lungs (pneumonia). GBS can also cause invasive bone and joint infections.
- GBS colonization is not considered to be a sexually transmitted disease or infection as it can occur on its own even in someone with no prior sexual experience. However, bacteria can be passed between sexual partners, including through oral contact.

GBS in your baby from birth through the first six days of life is more likely if:

- You tested GBS positive in your urine or GBS swab test during this pregnancy
- Your baby was born before 37 weeks (preterm)
- Your water has been broken 18+ hours without delivering
- You have a fever during labor
- You previously had a baby who developed GBS
