FIVE LITTLE KNOWN FACTS ABOUT BREAST CANCER

1. Breast cancer doesn't always come in the form of a lump.

Breast cancer in its earliest stages usually doesn't have any symptoms. When symptoms do appear, it's not always in the form of a lump. Be on the lookout for any of the signs below and report them to your doctor right away.

- Lump in your breast
- Swelling in or around your breast, collarbone or armpit
- Skin thickening or redness in or around your breast
- Breast warmth and itching
- Nipple changes or discharge
- Breast pain lasting for more than three to four weeks

2. Having a male relative who's had breast cancer increases your chances.

3. Maintaining a healthy weight can reduce your breast cancer risk.

4. You don't need to learn how to do a self-exam.

Studies show that doing monthly breast self-exams isn't necessary. Instead, it's more important to stay aware of how your breasts look and feel. If you notice changes, report them to your doctor without delay. This works just as well as doing a formal breast self-exam.

5. Drinking several glasses of alcohol a day can up your breast cancer risk.
