Church of Christ

*Wednesday,
March 6, 2024*

The background of the image is a soft, out-of-focus sunset or sunrise sky, transitioning from a pale yellow at the bottom to a light purple at the top. In the foreground, the dark silhouettes of two hands are raised in a gesture of prayer or praise, with fingers slightly spread. The hands are positioned on the left side of the frame, with the right hand higher than the left.

Did you know?
March is National Colorectal
Cancer Month.

Colorectal cancer starts in the colon or the rectum. These cancers can also be called colon cancer or rectal cancer, depending on where they start. Colon cancer and rectal cancer are often grouped together because they have many features in common.

The colon and rectum:

- The colon and rectum make up the large intestine (or large bowel), which is part of the digestive system, also called the gastrointestinal (GI) system.*

How do the colon and rectum work?

- Most of the large intestine is made up of the colon, a muscular tube about 5 feet (1.5 meters) long.*
- The colon absorbs water and salt from the remaining food matter after it goes through the small intestine (small bowel).*
- The waste matter that's left after going through the colon goes into the rectum, the final 6 inches (15cm) of the digestive system.*
- It's stored there until it passes through the anus.*
- Ring-shaped muscles (also called sphincters) around the anus keep stool from coming out until they relax during a bowel movement.*
